

MABEL BOLL STARTS ROME FLIGHT

HOOVER WINS MOST CONTESTS

CANDIDATE GLEANS SIXTY-FIVE VOTES IN DELEGATE FIGHT

Desperate "Antis" Seeking "Moses" To Lead Them

By GEORGE HOLMES
T. N. S. Staff Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, June 7.—Thoroughly aroused and frightened at last, the anti-Hoover allies were engaged today in a belated effort to whip together some kind of an organization, capable of stopping the nomination of the Secretary of Commerce, Herbert Hoover, here next week.

Lowden men, Watson men, Dawes men, Curtis men, everybody in fact, who regard the nomination of Hoover with foreboding, are participating in the effort to stop Hoover. Two meetings of this sort were held last night. More will be held today and tonight, and probably every day and night between now and balloting time.

Up to today, the allies have been such in name and purpose only. All of them have wanted to see the cabinet candidate stopped, but while there has been unity of thought and objective there has been utter lack of any unity of effort and command. The situation has not been unlike that prevailing on the western front during the World War when the various allies cheered for each other but lacked the unity of command and effort essential to victory. Ultimately, the World War allies found Foch. Perhaps the hardpressed allies in Kansas City may yet find a Foch, but his identity as yet remains hidden.

Meanwhile, the smooth-running Hoover machine has been clicking with a regularity and efficiency that has actually and painfully astonished the remnants of the "old guard" faction in the Republican party that have heretofore been somewhat contemptuous of Hoover's political abilities.

The Hoover machine has clicked so efficiently, in fact, that Hoover came out of the delegate contests before the Republican national committee with virtually a clean sweep.

These contests were ended today. Of the seventy-one cases actually heard and voted upon by the committee, Hoover won sixty-five. The Hoover managers could have won sixty-seven, but they deliberately voted against their own delegates in two Louisiana districts in order to give seats to and placate two influential negro politicians, one of whom is for Lowden and the other for Curtis. The other four that the Hoover people didn't win were territorial delegates whose affiliations are uncertain. They are technically described as "uninstructed." Thus, for all practical purposes, the delegate contests resulted in a complete victory, and, incidentally, the addition of sixty-five or sixty-nine votes to the already imposing Hoover strength.

At all times, the Hoover managers, some of whom blandly obtained proxies and voted as members of the committee, demonstrated they were absolutely in control of the situation.

That is the condition of affairs that last has thoroughly aroused allies into an effort to get some cohesion and unity into their efforts. They still have a week before the balloting begins. Much can sometimes be accomplished in a week but there are many who doubt that an effective political machine can be assembled in that time. The machine which they are opposing took months to put together.

WANT DANCE AND CARD BAN LIFTED

NEW CONCORD, O., June 7.—Students of Muskingum College would remove the ban on card playing and dancing according to a petition to be filed with the board of trustees at the commencement day meeting scheduled for today.

A warm fight on the question is expected as many of the trustees are ministers of United Presbyterian churches, which support the college.

Playing of cards and dancing are now prohibited by college authorities. A son of one of the trustees is reported selected to represent the students in handing the petition to the board.

The perfect right to keep Thaw out and no protest will be made. The anti-air force will be ignored by the department, spokesmen indicated.

Former Greene County Commissioner Victim Of Complications

J. F. Harshman, 71, prominent Greene County, died at his home, 423 N. King St. Wednesday evening at 7:55 o'clock. He had been seriously ill two weeks, with a complication of diseases, and was a patient at a Xenia hospital until Tuesday morning, when he was removed to his home.

Mr. Harshman was born in Beaver Creek Twp., September 22, 1856, and he spent all of his life in Greene County. He was educated in the Greene County Schools and was active in the political life of the county. In his early manhood he was elected to the board of trustees of Beaver Creek Twp., and later served as township treasurer. He came to Xenia with his family, twenty-one years ago.

He was elected county commissioner in 1904 and served in that capacity nine years. During the past five years he was connected with the Joint Stock Land Bank of Virginia, as appraiser.

His marriage to Miss Aletha Ann LaFong, oldest daughter of O. B. LaFong, pioneer Greene County, took place July 22, 1879. They were the parents of three children: John B. Harshman, city attorney of Dayton; Mrs. Myrtle Brill, Osborn; and Anna Viola Harshman who died twenty-eight years ago.

Two sisters, Mrs. W. W. Ferguson, near Zimmerman and Mrs. E. O. Garlough, Tipppecanoe City, O., also survive.

Mr. Harshman was a member of the First Reformed Church of this city and was active in the Men's Bible Class of the church. He was also affiliated with the Xenia Masonic Lodge.

THREE SHOT DURING DARING ROBBERY OF NEWSPAPER OFFICE

Two Policemen And News Employee Hurt; One May Die

TOLEDO, O., June 7.—Search for the six robbers who yesterday held up the business offices of the Detroit News and escaped with a part of the $65,000 weekly payroll after a street fight in which two police and one employee of the newspaper were shot, centered here today. Officials of the newspaper refused to reveal the amount of the loss.

One of the officers is expected to die. He is George Barstad, traffic officer, who was shot three times. Patrolman Guyot W. Craig was wounded in the foot, John W. Worten, employee of the newspaper was caught in the line of fire and shot in the hand and leg.

The bandits invaded the offices soon after 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon and executed the spectacular holdup. They escaped with but a part of the payroll and lost some of their loot as they ran from the building.

One of the bandits was said to have said after a policeman had been shot "be sure that he is dead, don't let him play possum this time." Police believe the remark to allude to the attempted American Express Company robbery here when Patrolman George Zientara was killed and Patrolman John Biscupski, who fell on the ground escaping machine gun fire.

Four Detroit detectives hurried here late yesterday afternoon but left after a thirty minute conference with Toledo police. The Detroit men were told that every path into the city from Detroit had been covered, making it nearly impossible for the robbers to flee here, although they may have entered the city by a round about route.

FAMOUS CLEVELAND PHYSICIAN KILLED BY ELECTRIC SHOCK

Dr. Herbert Steuer Victim Of X-Ray Machine

CLEVELAND, June 7.—Dr. Herbert Steuer, 35, widely known Cleveland physician, died early today at Mt. Sinai Hospital here, after a score of doctors and several firemen battled four hours to save his life.

Dr. Steuer was struck down in his office last night, when he accidentally touched a heavily charged wire on his X-ray machine while photographing the injured knee of a patient, it was said. A blue flash shot from the machine and Dr. Steuer fell to the floor, his hands clutching the wire, witnesses said. The X-ray apparatus toppled over on him.

Physicians worked over the victim with resuscitating machines pumping oxygen into his lungs. After oxygen from ten tanks failed to revive their colleague, attending doctors appealed to firemen of the rescue squad.

The fire fighters stripped to their waists worked in relays supplying artificial respiration with their hands, to the victim.

At 1 a. m. attending physicians agreed that Dr. Steuer was dead and further effort to revive him hopeless.

AMATEUR HEARS PURPORTED HELP MESSAGE FROM NOBILE

PHILADELPHIA, June 7.—A radio SOS which he believed to be from General Umberto Nobile, commander of the lost Italia dirigible on its flight over the Arctic regions, was picked up here early today by Albert L. Byler, an amateur receiving set. Byler is the Reading Railway towerman here who recently received the flash of the safe landing of the Bremen fliers on Greenland Island.

The message read: "Rush assistance. Position 84, 15, 10, north; 15, 20, 40, East."

The message was preceded by the general call letters, "CQ," in English, Byler said. He received the message on forty-two meters, which is one of the low wave lengths assigned to amateur use. He received the Greenland Island message on the same wave band.

"The SOS was faint but clear and distinct," Byler asserted. The position given in the mes-

SENSATIONAL AIR RACE OVER ATLANTIC APPEARS POSSIBLE

By International News Service

A sensational airplane race across the Atlantic ocean between two women whose lives are bound up in the ambition "to be the first," was in prospect today.

Miss Mabel Boll, of Rochester, N. Y., accompanied by a pilot and a navigator, hopped off at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, (N. Y.) at 6:15 o'clock this morning (New York Daylight Saving Time) for Old Orchard, Maine, on the first leg of a long air journey which may end in Rome.

Miss Boll and her companions—Pilot Oliver Le Bouteiller and Navigator Arthur Argles—used the monoplane Columbia in which Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine flew from New York to Germany last year.

Meanwhile the Fokker monoplane Friendship with its crew of three, including Miss Amelia Earhart, of Boston, was poised at Trepassey Bay, Newfoundland awaiting a favorable turn in the weather to hop off for an immediate start as soon as the winds died out.

While Miss Earhart and her flying companions, Pilot Wilmer Stultz and Mechanic Louis Gordon, had been warned by the backers of the flight not to engage in a race with Columbia, there was every possibility that circumstances might force the planes into the first air contest of speed and endurance the old Atlantic ocean has ever known.

Miss Boll left word behind her at Roosevelt field that she and her companions would "waste no time" at Old Orchard but would hop off immediately if weather conditions permitted. Miss Boll intimated that she and her companions would try to beat the Chamberlin-Levine record by making a non-stop flight to the Eternal City.

BYRD'S POLAR FLIGHT PLANE IS TESTED AT WRIGHT FIELD

Bernt Balchen Flies Ship To Fairfield; Will Leave Detroit On Friday For New York Is Learned.

DAYTON, O., June 7.—The all-metal Ford monoplane, built for Commander Richard E. Byrd's flight to the South Pole, will hop off from Detroit tomorrow for New York City preparatory to the start on the South Pole expedition scheduled for August 20.

Byrd's ship, piloted by Bernt Balchen, trans-Atlantic aviator, was brought to Wright Field, Fairfield, late yesterday for a test of improved radio equipment.

The tests will be completed today. It was said. On completion of these tests the big ship will fly back to Detroit late today and will then hop off for New York tomorrow, the reports here said.

Byrd's plane has been christened the "Floyd Bennett," in memory of the daring trans-Atlantic aviator who sacrificed his life to fly to the aid of the German-irish crew of the Bremen then stranded on the lonely island of Gretnely off the coast of Labrador. Bennett was to have accompanied Byrd on the polar flight as second in command.

Seven companions accompanied Balchen when he piloted the plane here yesterday. Among them were John Collins, chief radio engineer of the Ford company and

PILOT SAVES PLANE WHEN NEAR GROUND

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 7.—In pulling a Pacer monoplane out of a tail spin a fraction of a second before it crashed to the ground Dean C. Smith, ranking air mail pilot of the National Air Transport Company, saved the lives of two passengers, one of them a woman, and emerged himself with a scratch on his nose at Hadley Field Airport here. The plane was completely wrecked.

The injured, now in Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, are: Mrs. Marion Moyer, of Plainfield, and Frank D. Fillipo, of South Plainfield. The former suffered a fractured arm and leg and the man fractured ribs, according to hospital physicians.

Unruffled by his narrow escape, Smith said he would take the air mail out as usual on his regular route to Chicago.

According to spectators who saw the accident, the plane, up about 3,000 feet on a pleasure jaunt, went into a tail spin which Smith managed to work it out of after a 1,000 foot drop. It immediately went into another, from which he swung it just before he hit the earth.

AMUSEMENTS FILL UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Jack Dempsey's popularity with the American public was set down in cold dollars and cents at the United States treasury today.

From the big ring battles in which Dempsey has participated since he slugged his way to the championship of the world against Jess Willard in Toledo, Uncle Sam has collected nearly $500,000 in amusement taxes alone.

Considering the total paid by all who profited by these fights the taxes run into the millions. Amusement taxes netted the gov-

AGRARIAN MIDWEST WILL DEMAND PLANK FROM REPUBLICANS

Convention May Decide On Farm Policy; West Will Lose

KANSAS CITY, June 7.—The first rumblings of a major battle over the Republican platform for the 1928 campaign were heard here today as spokesmen for the agrarian mid-west launched a drive for a McNary-Haugen farm relief plank.

Outriders of the farm relief army, which will assemble here from every agricultural state, were outspoken in demanding a plank pledging the Republican party to the enactment of farm relief legislation, containing the equalization fee feature which President Coolidge vetoed in no uncertain terms. The drive, popular though it may be in the midwest, appears doomed to defeat.

Aside from this farm relief fight, there appeared no other clouds on the platform horizon. Party leaders, delegates and even the farm representatives were agreed that the platform should contain laudatory reference to Coolidge policies and pledges to continue them through another four years. All were in accord upon other subjects, with particular stress laid upon the Republican brands of national prosperity and governmental economy.

The farm relief plank however developed dissension among party leaders and delegates. Both sides threatened to carry their fight to the floor of the convention, if defeated in the committee on resolutions, which drafts the platform.

In the end, it appeared, the convention itself will decide whether the Republican platform shall call for another McNary-Haugen bill or support the president by pledging the party merely to "adequate farm relief legislation."

Upon such an issue, there seemed little doubt but that the

ARREST POLICEMAN CARRYING LIQUOR

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Motorcycle Patrolman Arthur J. Lloyd, 36, and two women were being held in Franklin County Jail here today following their arrest by federal dry agents last night. The trio was arrested when federal officers stopped the car of Patrolman Lloyd in a alleged, and found twenty-four half pints of liquor in the auto.

Immediately following his arrest Lloyd resigned from the Columbus police department.

Lloyd will be arraigned before Federal Commissioner Horn here this afternoon on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

What action will be taken against the two women is not known. It is thought, however, that they will be dismissed as Lloyd said that the women were just taking a ride with him and that they were not aware that he was transporting liquor. The women are Mrs. Esther Mancini, 34, and Clara Smith, 32, according to the records at the Franklin County Jail.

Lloyd has a wife and six children.

TOLEDO FLYER TO ATTEMPT JAPAN HOP

TOLEDO, O., June 7.—The announcement that a Toledo aviator is planning a flight, non-stop, to Japan, is causing interest to be aroused here today.

Russell A. Hostler, the pilot planning the flight, will hop from Seattle in a plane he has designed, sometime early in the fall according to his present plans.

QUEEN OF DIAMONDS WILL BE PASSENGER IN PLANE COLUMBIA

Expected to Take Northern Route To Italian City

BOSTON, June 7.—Somewhere off the Atlantic coast today the silvery, veteran monoplane Columbia was in flight as part of a transatlantic hop to the "Eternal City" of Rome.

Leaving Roosevelt Field, N. Y., at 6:15 a. m., with Miss Mabel Boll, the beautiful blonde "Queen of Diamonds" seated on a three-legged stool in a little cubicle of the "ship," Pilot Oliver Le Bouteiller and Navigator Arthur Argles headed for Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

BOSTON, June 7.—More than three hours after the transatlantic airplane Columbia left Roosevelt Field for Old Orchard Beach, Me., she had failed to be sighted by watchers along the New England coast line.

A canvass of all coastguard stations and radio headquarters failed to reveal the whereabouts of Miss Mabel Boll, the "Queen of Diamonds" and her two flying companions.

Advices from Old Orchard Beach stated the plane had been expected there about 9:30 a. m., but had not arrived. The weather had been hazy along the New England coast following the storm but the haze had lifted most stations reported.

Some doubt arose as to whether the Columbia was not planning to take some other course to Rome other than the so-called northern Linburgh circle that Miss Boll was stealing a march on Miss Amelia Earhart, the aviatix who was waiting for clearing weather at Trepassey Bay Newfoundland.

It is approximately 300 miles between Roosevelt field and Old Orchard beach. The usual flying time has been about 100 miles an hour. The Columbia left Long Island at 6:15 a. m., and was expected at Old Orchard between 9:15 a. m. and 9:30 a. m., flying comparatively slowly through the haze at eighty miles an hour the Columbia should have reached the Maine beach by around 10 a. m., but at that hour had not appeared.

During the hunt for some trace of the Columbia information was received from Monponsett, near the historic town of Plymouth, that an airplane passed over the community shortly after 8 a. m. Monponsett is approximately 200 miles from Roosevelt field and it was this was the Columbia she was making around 100 miles an hour.

Residents of Monponsett stated that they could barely make out the outline of an airplane in the haze above the town. The whirl of the motors, however, was heard plainly.

If the plane heard at Monponsett was the Columbia she was heading north on the route generally followed by those making the trans-Atlantic hop via the great northern circle.

A report reached Boston from New York to the effect that the Columbia would not stop at Old Orchard, but was headed for Halifax, Nova Scotia.

GRAFT IN GRAFTON REVEALED IN STATE AUDITOR'S REPORT

Claim Payments Are Made Illegally By Officials

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Claims that Grafton village officials were illegally compensated in connection with village public affairs for the purpose of evading the law forbidding public officers from being interested in the sale of material and supplies to a municipality, and that totaling $1223.91, remained unpaid, featured the report, made public today by State Auditor Joseph Tracy, covering an examination of Grafton village records.

The report held that illegal payments, totaling $566.54, were made to A. Ruder and to D. C. Bartlett for labor and material. The examinations claimed that Ruder as a member of the village board of public affairs, owed the village treasury $175.64, while Bartlett, a village councilman, owed the treasury $90.90. Restitution was left to the judgment of the village officials by the state examiners.

The state examiners charged that Grafton village records disclosed that Ruder illegally sold material and supplies to the village and that "minutes of the board of public affairs show the name of F. Anderson was substituted and used on invoices where material and supplies were purchased from A. Ruder, member of the board."

Howard Mason, radio man of the Byrd expedition.

Radio equipment on the flight yesterday worked perfectly in spite of adverse weather conditions, the radio men said this morning.

It was announced here that fifty-five men will form the personnel on the polar expedition.

Commander Byrd is said to be in New York awaiting the arrival of his huge monoplane.

With the exception of territory about Dover, Urichville and Coshocton, Alexander reported that few streams reached the flood crest despite the intermittent rains of this week, with the exception of the Walhonding and Tuscarawas rivers which join at Coshocton to form the Muskingum.

Points on the Walhonding are at flood stage and low lands along its banks are under shallow water, Alexander reported, and a similar condition exists at some points along the Tuscarawas.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 7.—Street railway tracks and highways near here are covered with rocks and earth today as a result of landslides caused by the recent heavy rains. Eastern and western outlets of the city are blocked.

The Ohio River here reached the 15-foot mark last night although flood stage is not expected.

COSHOCTON, O., June 7.—The Muskingum River early today had risen to a depth of 6 feet here and is rapidly rising, according to reports. The flood stage is 8 feet.

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—The Tuscarawas River today is overflowing the dikes in the vicinity of Gadenhuten, having reached the flood stage late yesterday, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau here. The flood stage is 9 feet. The water early today measured 10.5 feet and is gradually rising.

AMUSEMENTS FILL UNCLE SAM'S POCKETBOOK

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Jack Dempsey's popularity in ten years, the internal revenue bureau disclosed, including the assessments against prize fights, world series baseball games, theaters, night clubs and other places of amusement.

Dempsey's battle against Carpenter in New Jersey in 1921 resulted in a tax of $158,904, establishing a record for single sporting events up to that time. Fighting Flips in 1923 resulted in a tax of $108,047.

Another record was broken with amusement taxes of $175,192 at the Philadelphia Tunney fight where Jack lost the title. The comeback

AGRARIAN MIDWEST WILL DEMAND PLANK FROM REPUBLICANS

Convention May Decide On Farm Policy; West Will Lose

KANSAS CITY, June 7.—The first rumblings of a major battle over the Republican platform for the 1928 campaign were heard here today as spokesmen for the agrarian mid-west launched a drive for a McNary-Haugen farm relief plank.

Outriders of the farm relief army, which will assemble here from every agricultural state, were outspoken in demanding a plank pledging the Republican party to the enactment of farm relief legislation, containing the equalization fee feature which President Coolidge vetoed in no uncertain terms.

The drive, popular though it may be in the midwest, appears doomed to defeat.

Aside from this farm relief fight, there appeared no other clouds on the platform horizon. Party leaders, delegates and even the farm representatives were agreed that the platform should contain no reference to Coolidge policies and pledges to continue them through another four years. All were in accord upon other subjects, with particular stress laid upon the Republican brands of national prosperity and governmental economy.

The farm relief plank however developed discussion among party leaders and delegates. Both sides threatened to carry their fight to the floor of the convention, if defeated in the committee on resolutions, which drafts the platform.

In the end, it appeared, the convention itself will decide whether the Republican platform shall call for another McNary-Haugen bill or support the president by pledging the party merely to "adequate farm relief legislation."

Upon such an issue, there seemed little doubt but that the

ARREST POLICEMAN CARRYING LIQUOR

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Motorcycle Patrolman Arthur J. Lloyd, 36, and two women were being held in Franklin County jail here today following their arrest by federal dry agents last night. The trio was arrested when federal officers stopped the car of Patrolman Lloyd it is alleged, and found twenty-four half pints of liquor in the auto.

Immediately following his arrest Lloyd resigned from the Columbus police department.

Lloyd will be arraigned before Federal Commissioner Horn here this afternoon on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

What action will be taken against the two women is not known. It is thought, however, that they will be dismissed as Lloyd said that the women were just taking a ride with him and that they were not aware that he was transporting liquor. The women are Mrs. Esther Mancini, 34, and Clara Smith, 32, according to the records at the Franklin County jail.

Lloyd has a wife and six children.

TOLEDO FLYER TO ATTEMPT JAPAN HOP

TOLEDO, O., June 7.—The announcement that a Toledo aviator is planning a flight, non-stop, to Japan, is causing interest to be aroused here today.

Russell A. Hosler, the pilot planning the flight, will hop from Seattle in a plane he has designed, sometime early in the fall according to his present plans.

QUEEN OF DIAMONDS WILL BE PASSENGER IN PLANE COLUMBIA

Expected to Take Northern Route To Italian City

BOSTON, June 7.—Somewhere off the Atlantic coast today the silvery, veteran monoplane Columbia was in flight as part of a transatlantic hop to the "Eternal City" of Rome.

Leaving Roosevelt Field, N. Y., at 6:15 a. m., with Miss Mabel Boll, the beautiful blonde "Queen of Diamonds" seated on a three-legged stool in a little cubicle of the "ship," Pilot Oliver Le Bouteiller and Navigator Arthur Argles headed for Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

BOSTON, June 7.—More than three hours after the transatlantic airplane Columbia left Roosevelt Field for Old Orchard Beach, Me., she had failed to be sighted by watchers along the New England coast line.

A canvass of all coastward stations and radio headquarters failed to reveal the whereabouts of Miss Mabel Boll, the "Queen of Diamonds" and her two flying companions.

Advices from Old Orchard Beach stated the plane had been expected there about 9:30 a. m., but had not arrived. The weather had been hazy along the New England seaboard following the storm but the haze had lifted most stations reported.

Some doubt arose as to whether the Columbia was not planning to take some other course to Rome other than the so-called northern Lindbergh circle—that Miss Boll was stealing a march on Miss Amelia Earhart, the aviatrix who was waiting for clearing weather at Trepassey Bay Newfoundland.

It is approximately 300 miles between Roosevelt field and Old Orchard beach. The usual flying time has been about 100 miles an hour. The Columbia left Long Island at 6:15 a. m., and was expected at Old Orchard between 9:15 a. m. and 9:30 a. m., flying comparatively slowly through the haze at eighty miles an hour the Columbia should have reached the Maine beach by around 10 a. m., but at that hour had not appeared.

During the hunt for some trace of the Columbia information was received from Monponsett, near the historic town of Plymouth, that an airplane passed over that community shortly after 8 a. m. Monponsett is approximately 200 miles from Roosevelt Field and if this was the Columbia she was making around 100 miles an hour.

Residents of Monponsett stated that they could barely make out the outline of an airplane in the haze above the town. The whirl of the motors, however, was heard plainly.

If a plane heard at Monponsett was the Columbia she was heading north on the route generally followed by those making the trans-Atlantic hop via the great northern circle.

A report reached Boston from New York to the effect that the Columbia would not stop at Old Orchard but was headed for Halifax, Nova Scotia.

GRAFT IN GRAFTON REVEALED IN STATE AUDITOR'S REPORT

Claim Payments Are Made Illegally By Officials

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Claims that Grafton village officials were illegally compensated in connection with village public affairs for the purpose of evading the law forbidding public officers from being interested in the sale of material and supplies to a municipality, and that former findings for recovery, totaling $1223.91, remained unpaid, featured the report, made public today by State Auditor Joseph Tracy, covering an examination of Grafton village records.

The report held that illegal payments, totaling $566.54, were made to A. Ruder and to D. C. Bartlett for labor and material. The examinations claimed that Ruder, as a member of the village board of public affairs, owed the village treasury $475.64, while Bartlett, a village councilman, owed the treasury $90.90. Restitution was left to the judgment of the village officials by the state examiners.

The state examiners charged that Grafton village records disclosed that Ruder illegally sold material and supplies to the village and that "minutes of the board of public affairs show the name of Mrs. Esther Mancini, 34, and Clara Smith, 32, according to the records at the Franklin County jail.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit-forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without gripping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries, and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE. Adv.

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit-forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe, thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic purges and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries, and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE. Advt.

TOWNSHIP BUREAU HAS SOCIAL MEETING

The spirit of the Xenia Township Farm Bureau was not in the least dampened by the rainstorm Tuesday evening, when more than eighty gathered at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Weir Cooper on the Dayton Pike for a social meeting. The evening was arranged as a "Know Your Neighbor" gathering and an informal evening was enjoyed.

Roll call was answered by each member who named his favorite variety of fruit or breed of livestock. Special features of the program consisted of music furnished by the Page family Orchestra. Miss Dortha Paget also gave several piano selections which were much enjoyed.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford also entertained the guests with his original puppet show which proved highly entertaining to his audience.

A short talk was given by County Agent J. R. Kimble who described the various pests that are damaging the corn, and also announced the meeting and demonstrations which will be of interest to farmers.

An old-fashioned community "sing" was also a feature of the evening's entertainment.

Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

CINCINNATI STATIONS WILL BROADCAST TWO CONVENTIONS

Both the Republican and Democratic party conventions will be broadcast through two Cincinnati radio stations, according to Miss Natalie Giddings, Cincinnati, publicity director of both WLW and WSAI, operated by the Crosley Radio Corporation.

The Republican convention opens Tuesday, June 12 at Kansas City and the Democrats will convene Tuesday, June 20, at Houston, Texas. Broadcasting of all sessions of each will be picked up by the huge RCA loudspeaker owned by THE GAZETTE for the benefit of street crowds during the entire convention, supplementing the elaborate news coverage this newspaper is planning.

The Cincinnati stations will alternate in broadcasting the sessions. Station WLW will broadcast daily from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. and Station WSAI will be used from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. If the convention sessions last after 6 p. m., station WSAI will drop its regular program and continue broadcasting the convention.

The radio plans arranged by THE GAZETTE will be the same as used last fall for the world series baseball games and the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago. Through the loud-speaker, which is powered with tubes similar to a receiving instrument, the newspaper will transmit the program received on its own instrument through a huge horn placed in a window of the second floor of The Gazette Bldg.

The best of nationally known announcers are to furnish full descriptions of both day and night convention sessions. WLW and WSAI are announcing at no time will two stations simultaneously send out the convention program.

A running story, punctuated by speeches, balloting and attendant excitement will be available at all times. Band music, applause and cheering will all come through the microphone. Convention speakers will be on the convention platforms.

TOWNSHIP BUREAU HAS SOCIAL MEETING

The spirit of the Xenia Township Farm Bureau was not in the least dampened by the rainstorm Tuesday evening, when more than eighty gathered at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Weir Cooper on the Dayton Pike for a social meeting. The evening was arranged as a "Know Your Neighbor" gathering and an informal evening was enjoyed.

Roll call was answered by each member who named his favorite variety of fruit or breed of livestock.

Special features of the program consisted of music furnished by the Pageit Family Orchestra. Miss Dortha Pageit also gave several piano selections which were much enjoyed.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford also entertained the guests with his original puppet show which proved highly entertaining to his audience.

A short talk was given by County Agent J. R. Kimber who described the various pests that are damaging the corn, and also announced meeting and demonstrations which will be of interest to farmers.

WHO IS MABEL BOLL IS QUESTION ASKED WHEN FLYER STARTS

NEW YORK, June 7.—That most fascinating of human qualities—mystery—surrounds Mabel Boll who climbed into the sky and the headlines again today when she hopped from Roosevelt Field on the first leg of her projected airplane flight to Italy.

Just who is Mabel Boll?

Nobody seems to know exactly who she is, and she won't tell, preferring to be known as "the woman with the thirty-three bracelets," the "queen of diamonds," or the "$250,000-a-day bride."

This much is known. She is a blonde, beautiful woman, in her early thirties, with plenty of money, a magnificent apartment, and above all, $1,000,000 worth of diamonds all paid for and all her own.

She first reached the headlines several years ago when she stepped from a trans-Atlantic liner. She was content to sail in the days, wearing her "1,000,000 worth of diamonds."

Mabel said they had been given to her by her husband, a wealthy South American whom she had married in Paris. They were his gifts, she explained during the first four days of their marriage.

Thus her first fame as the "$250,000 a day bride," a simple matter of dividing $1,000,000 by four. Later she became the "mystery bride" for the husband failed to follow his bride across the ocean nor did he appear later. Then Mabel began appearing at all the fashionable places both here and across the water.

PROSECUTOR WOULD SET ASIDE PLEA

TOLEDO, O., June 7.—Decision regarding the attempt of the prosecution to set aside the not guilty plea of Charles J. Hoppe, 26-year-old taxi driver, charged with the first degree murder of seven-year-old Dorothy Sielagowski, will be handed down tomorrow, it was declared by Judge Milroy today.

Motion to set aside the not guilty plea of Hoppe brought by Lucas County attorneys, was heard by Judge Milroy today.

Although police declare that Hoppe confessed to the assault upon, and murder of the little girl, Hoppe last week "stated" when arraigned in common pleas court on the first degree murder indictment, and a technical plea of not guilty was entered for him upon the order of the court.

His marriage to Mrs. Martha A. Lackey took place twenty-nine years ago. She preceded him in death, April 1, 1914.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m.

You Need More Than a Smile

By Edna Wallace Hopper

It's pleasant to know that your glistening white teeth fascinate and allure. But we who make an earnest study of health and youth preservation demand more than cleanliness. The enamel and gums must be protected.

To assure the greatest protection against wearing away of precious enamel I have had to understand personally the effects of the various ingredients of the tooth paste I use, which is called Quindent, the "five-in-one."

I am convinced that it not only cleanses and polishes the teeth perfectly, but it purifies the breath and, above all, counteracts the ever present acids.

This protection is due to one of its most valuable properties—milk of magnesia, which I used to use separately as a mouth wash before expert scientists had produced Quindent.

Quindent is not a biting, sharp dentifrice. Its action is sure and mild. The taste is pleasant and I advise you to leave a slight coating of it on the gums and tongue which is effective for hours.

You can obtain Quindent at any toilet counter, 50 cents for a large tube.

THIRD ARREST MADE IN OSBORN CASE; SECOND WOMAN IS HELD

Mrs. Spurgeon, after being brought to Xenia by Constable Schneider and placed in the County Jail Tuesday, was transferred by him to the Fairfield Jail Wednesday. Mrs. Meadow is also confined there with her in the women's cell.

Mrs. Spurgeon is said to have pleaded not guilty and will be given a hearing Thursday. Dr. Shepard has not been assigned and was expected to be served with a warrant Thursday.

ARREST SUSPECT IN THEFT OF CONFISCATED CAR FROM GARAGE

Carl Duerr, Dayton, O., under arrest in that city, was expected to be returned to Xenia by Deputy Sheriff George Sugden early Thursday afternoon to face a charge of obtaining property under false pretenses.

Duerr is believed by Sheriff Omer Tate to be the man who stole a Marmon roadster from storage here last August, after the machine had been confiscated by county authorities.

The suspect obtained possession of the car on the pretext he represented the real owner and had authority to get it.

After having changed possession several times, Sheriff Tate a number of months later traced the car and recovered it. The machine was turned back to its latest owner shortly afterward, following a replevin suit, which was thereupon dismissed.

Sheriff Tate did not drop his search for the thief and his investigation led to the arrest of Duerr by the Montgomery County sheriff's office.

Duerr, the sheriff said, has served time in the Greene County Jail as a federal prisoner sentenced from United States District Court.

Deputy Sheriff Sugden went to Dayton at noon Thursday and was to return immediately with his prisoner. Upon arrival here, Duerr was scheduled to be arraigned before R. O. Copey, justice of the peace.

CINCINNATI STATIONS WILL BROADCAST TWO CONVENTIONS

Both the Republican and Democratic party conventions will be broadcast through two Cincinnati radio stations, according to Miss Natalie Giddings, Cincinnati, publicity director of both WLW and WSAI, operated by the Crosley Radio Corporation.

The Republican convention opens Tuesday, June 12 at Kansas City and the Democrats will convene Tuesday, June 13, at Houston, Texas. Broadcasting of all sessions of each will be picked up by the huge RCA loudspeaker owned by THE GAZETTE for the benefit of street crowds during the entire conventions, supplementing the elaborate news coverage this newspaper is planning.

The Cincinnati stations will alternate in broadcasting the sessions. Station WLW will broadcast daily from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m. and Station WSAI will be used from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. If the convention sessions last after 6 p. m. station WSAI will drop its regular program and continue broadcasting the convention.

The radio plans arranged by THE GAZETTE will be the same as used last fall for the world series baseball games and the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago. Through the loud-speaker, which is powered with tubes similar to a receiving instrument, the news paper will transmit the program received on its own instrument through a huge horn placed in a window of the second floor of The Gazette Bldg.

The best of nationally known announcers are to furnish full descriptions of both day and night convention sessions. WLW and WSAI are announcing at no time will two stations simultaneously send out the convention program.

A running story, punctuated by speeches, balloting and attendant excitement will be available at all times. Band music, applause and cheering will all come through the microphone. Prominent speakers will be on the convention platform.

during both in the proceedings. Entertaining features will be furnished by the radio stations during other dull moments of the sessions.

The Crosley stations at Cincinnati have agreed to broadcast a minimum of five hours a day for a minimum of seven days from each convention, although it is possible that the time, both in hours and days, will be extended.

It is expected that the morning sessions will convene at 11 a. m., Eastern Standard time, and will adjourn at 6 or 7 p. m. Any evening sessions will begin probably at 9 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

OUR CHOICE—He that walketh with wise men shall be wise; but a companion of fools shall be destroyed.—Prov. 13:20.

KEEPING THE MENTAL FIRE GOING

When is a man old? Should the man of 60 be "shelved"? How do these older men play the game? Wallace Meyer, in The Magazine of Business, tells of "old" men who play the game with the zest of youngsters.

"A man is old," says Mr. Meyer, "not when he reaches a certain year mark, but when he makes up his mind he is through, when he lets his mental fire go out. That may come early or late, depending on the man's training and his interest in life."

Trader Horn, 73. Moses Hooper, 93. William Howard Taft, 71. Frank Vanderlip, 60. Thomas A. Edison, 81. These men are playing and have played the game.

"Keep. Resourceful. Constructive. Knowing what matters, what does not matter. Looking ahead. Planning. Starting new works. More useful than ever."

"That is the way older men play the game. They waste no motions. They make every move count, because they know by experience what is worth doing."

"So long as a man considers himself a going concern, we had better not indulge in any nonsense about his being an old one."

THE SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

Once more President Coolidge chooses to go west for summer holidays. He has selected Cedar Island lodge, on the Brule river, in Wisconsin, thirty-nine miles from Superior, the near neighbor of Duluth, Minnesota. It is only a short night's ride from Chicago. Thus the temporary home offered for his use fulfills the condition of accessibility while affording the necessary seclusion.

While it was known that the president was giving much thought to the selection of a suitable summer abode, it had been suggested that he would probably favor a place in the North Carolina mountains convenient to the capital. But in these days of rapid transportation and instantaneous communication, no special advantage attaches to such proximity.

Mr. Coolidge evidently has fallen captive to the fascination of the west, with which he became acquainted for the first time last summer. His prospective sojourn in the woods of Wisconsin is described as a vacation, but it will actually be so only to the extent of providing a change of scene. For no president can really get away from his work for long. Official duties can no more be dismissed than his shadow.

Much is said about the ashes of burned out love, and probably there wouldn't be so many of these ashes, if love knew how to make the kitchen fire burn right.

It may be all right for people to set out to air their grievances, but it does not accomplish much to hot air them.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

TRYING AGAIN

Margaret Cushman Banning, successful author, says perseverance and persistence are what bring success to the writer. Thirty or forty rejection slips must not be taken as final. Writing is a worthy and dignified profession and it is not to be learned in a hurry. Unfortunately there are some people seized with the idea that they have a talent for writing when all they really have is the desire. The desire is important, but it is far from enough. Few, even with the beginnings of talent, are willing to pay the price of hard and exacting practice.

AMERICA AND MUSIC

Germany has long been considered a leader in matters musical. America has been thought lagging or too new in the development of the arts—especially music. Zimbalist, famous violinist, now comes back from a world tour and says America is the real place of music and musicians.

"America," he says, "leads the world in all forms of musical activities. We have left Germany far behind. We not only have the best orchestras and the best concertists, but we have men who write excellent music."

This, from one who knows, is quite an answer to the cult of the anti-Americans.

NON-THINKERS

Count Keyserling, one of many who have come from abroad to tell us what's the matter with our country, returns to Europe with the remark that Americans are not yet thinkers, although in time he believes they may become rational. Of course the human being, wherever he lives, is not much given to thinking. He really doesn't have to think, relying chiefly on instincts with which he is amply and intensely supplied. But the brand of thinking in America is about as sound and clear, what there is of it, as that of any other place.

INFERIORITY COMPLEX

Americans are frequently accused of being egotistic. Foreigners sometimes tell us we have a superiority complex. A French girl, writing to the Chicago Daily News, perhaps comes nearer the truth when she says Americans really have an inferiority complex. Most of us over here come to believe, because we hear it so often, that imported goods are the best. English tweed is the real thing. German universities are the best in the world; our doctors must study in Vienna; our musicians must go abroad; French bread is better than American bread, and imported Christmas cards and automobiles are the finest. We pay more for poor Swiss cheese made in Switzerland and pay less for excellent Swiss made in New York or Wisconsin. To feel the way we do about many kinds of foreign goods is partly a pose and partly mere ignorance.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, June 7. — The big town always has a Murderer's Row. A long time ago the most conspicuous place of sudden death was in Broadway, between Houston and Bleecker streets. In other periods there were the Barracks, in 37th street, west of Tenth avenue; Hell's Kitchen, in 39th street; Milligan Alley, in 43rd street; and, of course, the Bowery. All these in time became respectable or disappeared. Now the toughest place in New York is on the docks, in the last shadows of Brooklyn Bridge, on the side opposite Manhattan.

There gangs practice murder among themselves and inflict it on each other. When the other day Ed McGuire flopped face down on a pier with jerk-jerk down on his chest, he was the tenth man to die in the struggle for the leadership of the old Bill Lovett gang, errors of the docks. Others envied Lovett his power, and one day he was found with his skull crushed, his brains seeing the light for the first time. Various aspirants arose and had brief glory. McGuire rolled dice with others for the gang leadership. He won—and lost.

In New York there isn't any underworld in the sense of a particular district, as there used to be. A lot of pimples are less painful and less conspicuous than one big blot. The police keep the iniquities scattered, instead of segregated.

The lower classes of crooks, which simply means those with small or no bankrolls, naturally are to be found here and there among the rest of the poor. The big crooks invariably are big spenders. "Easy come, easy go"—and are to be seen at the Broadway hits, smartest night clubs and exclusive hostilities and apartment houses.

Leaving the theater a few nights ago, my wife indicated two fashionably attired, sentimentally appearing men accompanied by young and beautiful women, who were getting into a limousine, and wondered if they were sons of aristocratic families. I was able to assure her positively that one of them, virtually illiterate, was an internationally famous gambler, and another the chieftain of a bootlegging ring.

Not long ago police raided an office in the eminently respectable Paramount building, and found the headquarters of a robber gang.

WHY YOUR DOG OBEYS ORDERS

It is one thing to make a dog obey a simple order, but quite another thing to make him do so willingly.

The dog is running after something you call him. He may eventually pause and come to you, but he is probably a bit deliberative about it.

A simple use of the association method for teaching a dog to stop promptly when ordered, is this: Tie your dog to a stake or to a tree by a piece of twine at least 100 feet long. Measure off the exact length of the twine in a given direction and thus know in advance just where the dog will be when he reaches the end of it. You then start to run with your dog and on approaching the point where you know the leash will be taut, yell, "Whoa," "Stop," or whatever signal you adopt. The dog will not stop because of your command, but of course, must stop because of the tightening of the leash. After a few trials he begins to associate your command with the necessity for stopping and for doing it instantly.

When about six months old a dog usually feels so friendly toward the world that he may follow anybody who stops to pat him. To break a dog of following people I once hired a man to entice him away from home, and when about a block away to hit the dog in the face with his glove. The dog probably thought this was an accident and the next day he followed another man who impressed him as a nice acquaintance. But the same thing happened, except that this man, instead of using his glove, hit him with a small switch. That was enough. Thereafter that dog didn't follow anybody. If anyone tries to coax him to follow, he growls. This dog learned how to guard an automobile in the same way. At first he just sat in the front seat and wagged his tail at everybody who came along. One night a man took a robe out of the car. He supposed the man knew what he was about and paid little heed

Health Baths

When less than a century ago it was the style for a cultured "lady" to enjoy perpetual ill-health, the most fashionable of all resorts was the health baths, watering places scattered here and there all over the world, which were distinguished by natural mineral baths.

Most of these baths had a strong sulphur content, and certainly were most valuable in the aid and correction of many forms of ill-health.

Today the styles and the vogue demand good health, excellent health, and as a consequence those same fashionable watering places are quite as much frequented, but now by a serious group of men and women who obey bathing and dietary laws in their efforts to rid themselves of rheumatism, arthritis and a general run down condition.

Mud baths are another form of health-bath as old as civilization itself. The famous mud baths of Saint Armand were frequented by the Romans, as relics recently excavated prove. There are even now mud baths at Marienbad, Karlsbad and Teplitz in Germany. In Saki in Sweden, in St. Armand, Dax and Neris in France, and in Viterbe in Italy.

Sun baths are probably the most universally known and valued of all health baths. On every seashore in the world men, women and children who health and strength through the sun. Alpine light baths consist of condensing light and letting its rays play directly on the body. These are the most modern methods of treating skin ailments and lack of necessary vitality.

The natural sun bath which calls for direct exposure to the sun rays, with neither window glass nor cloth between, is not only excellent for your own health and beauty, but particularly essential in the upbuilding of a child. Often the treatment of rickets and tuberculosis calls for no more than these concentrated sun baths.

Pine baths are another popular form of health bathing, and not only are the pine needle essences revitalizing and stimulating, but they are refreshing, soothing and delightful as well.

Salt baths are known over the world. One form consists of a cupful of sea-salt to a tub of warm water. Another is called the salt rub. Coarse kitchen salt is rubbed all over the body, to be followed by either a warm tub or shower bath until all the salt is thoroughly rinsed off. This last treatment is invigorating and stimulates the circulation of the skin, but it should not be taken oftener than twice a week. Follow with a cold shower, if you can.

One more caution about salt baths. They are drying to the skin, and I strongly advise that you follow with a massage of moisturizing cream which is not only soothing and lubricating to the surface, but leaves the skin so pleasantly cool and humid that the final luxury of the bath has been obtained; moreover it has the happy faculty of not leaving any "greasy" sensation.

Have You a Nervous Disorder?

Gault reports that 18 of his patients with nervous disorders were placed on a prolonged calcium administration lasting for six months. The results of the treatments were uniform. Within 24 to 48 hours, the patient experienced a feeling of well being; nervousness and apprehension disappeared, and the feeling of fatigue which was so commonly complained of, was replaced by a sensation of physical fitness. In most of the patients the appetite was improved; dull aching pains were relieved, and they were able to sleep better than they were for a long time.

This has a logical basis for the following reason: Calcium is capable of correcting the disturbance of the inorganic equilibrium in the animal body. It seems to exert a favorable influence upon the economy of iron in the metabolism (chemistry of the body), inasmuch as it appears to be possible to maintain equilibrium upon a small amount of iron when the foods contain an abundance of calcium." (Sherman).

Calcium is an alkali, or base, and so helps to keep the fluids and the blood in their normal, slightly alkaline state.

Now I cannot advise you to take calcium medicinally except under the supervision of your physician. But I can remind you of this: The whole grain cereals, rather than the polished and refined, contain again as much calcium as the finely milled products. The fruits and vegetables are fairly rich in calcium. And milk contains a quart of clear, saturated lime water! And it has the best protein, or building and reinforcing food, known.

So, if you have nervous disorders, or have nothing the matter with you, and simply want to maintain your normal health, remember to use milk in some form, or cheese freely in your diet.

Mineral Oil Troubles. Mrs. M.'s daughter had a slight attack of appendicitis. Under her doctor's care, with ice bags and feeding cracked ice, she recovered. He gave her a large hot, which she took each night. She has a great deal of gas and a discharge of an orange colored fluid which seems like oil. This is very disagreeable and annoying. Her doctor has gone away on a vacation and she doesn't want to go to another about this.

(The Drain Pipe.)

Many housewives clean out both top and bottom of the refrigerator once a week, but neglect the drain pipe. This is most important, as it really gets more clogged and dirty than any other section of the icebox. Don't neglect it; it is unhealthful to forget it.

(Requested Recipe.)
I have been requested for a coffee cake recipe containing almond paste and chopped almonds. I cannot find one with almond paste in, but here is one with the almonds:

Cincinnati Coffee Bread.—Put one-third cup sugar, one-third cup butter and one-half teaspoon salt in bowl, and pour over one cup scalded milk. When lukewarm, add one yeast cake, dissolved in one-fourth cup lukewarm water, two eggs slightly beaten, and enough flour to make a stiff batter. Cover and let rise until mixture has doubled its bulk. Cut down, beat thoroughly and spread evenly in two buttered, round layer cake tins. Sprinkle with nut mixture, let rise and bake in hot oven 40 minutes. Nut mixture—Mix two tablespoons sugar and three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon, and add three-fourths cup soft, stale bread crumbs, two tablespoons melted butter and three tablespoons chopped, blanched almonds.

form it is very good for clearing out the intestines occasionally. The discharge your daughter has, undoubtedly is the oil. That is one of the drawbacks of taking mineral oil in large doses. Another thing that has to be thought of is this: Some new work has shown that mineral oil may absorb the vitamins from the food, if taken in too large doses over any prolonged period of time.

It is the consensus of opinion among physicians and surgeons that if the appendix bothers at all, it is much better to have it out, for the possibility of its lighting up and giving another acute attack which may be very serious is very great. Recently it has been demonstrated that certain inflammatory conditions of the ovaries and tubes will clear up under rest, diathermy (electric heat) and the ultra-violet rays. Perhaps this treatment will prove effective in clearing up inflammation of the appendix.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 7.—You find as cheery an aggregation as any kindergarten could ask for.

The senators are quite an elderly outfit of old geezers, mind you. You'd suppose the loss of an entire night's sleep would wear on 'em—and some of the oldest, most decrepit among 'em, anyway—their ages run away up to nearly 80.

How do they stand such an experience?—and still seem so bright and wakeful?

That is, that's the theory. Really, it's pure bunk. The fighting is sham fighting. It's just an excuse of the senators—to stay out all night.

Any time the senate wants to stop filibusters, can. It's a mere matter of rules. The house of representatives did stop it years ago. That's so law a body that delays there grew tiresome—so the representatives abolished 'em, by limiting speeches' length. Since then there have been no filibusters in the lower house.

When anybody growls about the senate's abuse of "unlimited debate" he's growing through his hat.

The senate loves filibusters—consider 'em fun.

The public certainly doesn't object. If it did it would make its objection known at the polls. Vice President Dawes proved that. He had an idea that a republic did object, and tried to make a popular issue out of it. It fell flat.

You read in the morning paper that the senate's been in continuous 24-hour session—and what's the mental picture you conjure up?

You think of an awful, tired-looking crowd of senators, don't you? But what do you find?—when you get down to the Capitol.

They haven't lost much sleep. They've snoozed here and there. On the senate floor they've spilled one another. Generally there haven't been half a dozen at any one time in the chamber. Mostly, they've been having a corking good time among themselves—out in the cloak room, down in the restaurant, or over in the Senate Office building.

They've had a lovely little party—and yet they're in a position to give first-class account of 'em when finally they do get home and find the misers waiting up for 'em with a miling pin.

Of course, I don't mean to suggest that these celebrations aren't entirely harmless.

They are. There's no bar in the Capitol these times. It's all perfect quiet and orderly—and lawful—except, possibly, for a few hip flasks—and, with old men, like these, who may actually need a little stimulation, they're only medicinal.

In all sincerity, the senators consider that they're undergoing terrible hardships in the national interest—and they're martyrs to public service—all that kind of stuff.

But if filibusters were ruled out, it would take half the fun out of the United States senate.

Living and Loving

The Old or the New

Youth is a delightful time, but it is harrowing, too. From the time one begins to notice members of the opposite sex—and that is younger than some seem to think—one is apt to be agitated. Letters from some of my young friends indicate that they would be perfectly happy if a certain person loved them—if they could be sure. Others don't make a hit at all with the other sex, and are disconsolate in consequence—and naturally so. And the popular ones cannot make up their minds which of their numerous admirers to encourage.

The following letter is from a girl who is hesitating between her old and her new boy friend. Let us see if we can help her out.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am very much puzzled over what seems to be my first real love affair. I am 17 years old and a high school student. For over two years I have been what I thought very much in love with a fellow named Blondy. I am sure he liked me as a friend, but he has been playing the part of a lover for over a year.

At first I did not go out with other fellows, but found out he is going with another girl. When I asked him about her he only laughed and told me that I knew whether he loved me or loved her. That is just what I want to know. Since last January I decided

I would go out with other fellows. But this does not please him. A month ago I met a young man who is nice, looking and mannerly and is about 19. My old friend objects to my new friend coming to meet me and accompanying me home from places. My parents think the old boy friend is too settled for me, and my mother met my new friend and liked him. I enjoy myself just as much with my new friend, who does not try to make love to me as I ever did with the old one. Every one of my friends, young or old, I ask, tell me to use my own judgment.

I think you are too young to engage yourself to the older fellow, Blondy, and as you like the new friend, who is nearer your age, just as well, I think you should go with him, too. The first friend evidently does not consider himself engaged to you or he would not feel free to go with another girl. His attitude is a bit dog in the mangerish, isn't it? Have a good time with different boys for a few years and then you will be ready to settle to one.

BRINGING IN THE SHEEP

"Not another word would Trumpeter say. Off he trotted as fast as his long legs would carry him."

Boloblink continued the story. "Wife and I turned around to speak to Mrs. Trumpeter, but she, too, had disappeared. We looked everywhere, but not a sign of her could we find. We Bobs were quite alone and to tell the truth, were rather glad of it. We were too sleepy to talk. So wife and I picked out a soft spot in the grass and cuddled up to take a doze.

"Just how long we had slept we never knew, but we were suddenly awakened by a great hullabaloo."

"Bow-wow-wow! Keep in line!" Surely that was Mex's bark.

"Tr-r-r-r-r-r! Heads to the front. Take the path to the left, you silly things. Come, now, follow your leaders!" cried a shrill voice that on the second we recognized as Trumpeter's.

"Wide awake, Mrs. Boloblink and I flew up to a branch in the tree above us to see the better."

"Would you believe it, Mex, the dog, and our old friend, the longlegged bird—good friends once more—were driving home the sheep!"

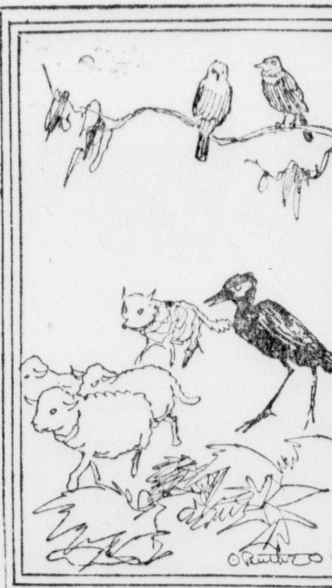

"As soon as one of the flock would stray from the path, Trumpeter would run to the wanderer's side and, giving him a sharp nip with his bill, send the stray sheep scurrying back to the fold again, while Mex ran barking at the heels of the crowd. One fat sheep took it into his head to run away, but he didn't get far. Mex hung on the end of his tail and brought him back where he belonged in no time."

"Both the dog and the bird acted as if they enjoyed their job, too. Straight through the gate and into the yard, where the sheep were to send the night, the two shepherds drove their charges.

"We waited and waited for Trumpeter and Mex to come back, but they didn't. Perhaps they stood guard while the sheep slept. At any rate, a never saw either of them again."

Sonny-Bunny had been listening to the story with his little pink mouth wide open, and now the little rabbit asked:

"But why not? Didn't Trumpeter come next morning to ask you how you were getting along?"

Boloblink chuckled. "Maybe he did. I am sure I don't know. But he couldn't find us because we were there."

Next—"Three Guesses."

KEEPING THE MENTAL FIRE GOING

When is a man old? Should the man of 60 be "shelved"? How do these older men play the game? Wallace Meyer, in The Magazine of Business, tells of "old" men who play the game with the best of youngsters.

"A man is old," says Mr. Meyer, "not when he reaches a certain year mark, but when he makes up his mind he is through, when he lets his mental fire go out. That may come early or late, depending on the man's training and his interest in life."

Trader Horn, 73, Moses Hooper, 93, William Howard Taft, 71, Frank Vanderlip, 60, Thomas A. Edison, 81. These men are playing and have played the game.

"Keen, Resourceful, Constructive. Knowing what matters, what does not matter. Looking ahead. Planning. Starting new works. More useful than ever."

"That is the way older men play the game. They waste no motions. They make every move count, because they know by experience what is worth doing."

"So long as a man considers himself a going concern, we had better not indulge in any nonsense about his being an old one."

THE SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

Once more President Coolidge chooses to go west for summer holidays. He has selected Cedar Island lodge, on the Bruile river, in Wisconsin, thirty-nine miles from Superior, the near neighbor of Duluth, Minnesota. It is only a short night's ride from Chicago. Thus the temporary home offered for his use fulfills the condition of accessibility while affording the necessary seclusion.

While it was known that the president was giving much thought to the selection of a suitable summer abode, it had been suggested that he would probably favor a place in the North Carolina mountains convenient to the capital. But in these days of rapid transportation and instantaneous communication, no special advantage attaches to such proximity.

Mr. Coolidge evidently has fallen captive to the fascination of the west, with which he became acquainted for the first time last summer. His prospective sojourn in the woods of Wisconsin is described as a vacation, but it will actually be so only to the extent of providing a change of scene. For no president can really get away from his work for long. Official duties can no more be dismissed than his shadow.

Much is said about the ashes of burned out love, and probably there wouldn't be so many of these ashes, if love knew how to make the kitchen fire burn right.

It may be all right for people to set out to air their grievances, but it does not accomplish much to hot air them.

The Way of the World

TRYING AGAIN

Margaret Cullin Banning, successful author, says perseverance and persistence are what bring success to the writer. Thirty or forty rejection slips must not be taken as final. Writing is a worthy and dignified profession and it is not to be learned in a hurry. Unfortunately there are some people seized with the idea that they have a talent for writing when all they really have is the desire. The desire is important, but it is far from enough. Few, even with the beginnings of talent, are willing to pay the price of hard and exacting practice.

AMERICA AND MUSIC

Germany has long been considered a leader in matters musical. America has been thought lagging or too new in the development of the arts—especially music. Zimbalist, famous violinist, now comes back from a world tour and says America is the real place of music and musicians.

"America," he says, "leads the world in all forms of musical activities. We have left Germany far behind. We not only have the best orchestras and the best concertists, but we have men who write excellent music."

This, from one who knows, is quite an answer to the cult of the anti-Americans.

NON-THINKERS

Count Keyserling, one of many who have come from abroad to tell us what's the matter with our country, returns to Europe with the remark that Americans are not yet thinkers, although in time he believes they may become rational. Of course the human being, wherever he lives, is not much given to thinking. He really doesn't have to think, relying chiefly on instincts with which he is amply and intensely supplied. But the brand of thinking in America is about as sound and clear, what there is of it, as that of any other place.

INFERIORITY COMPLEX

Americans are frequently accused of being egotistic. Foreigners sometimes tell us we have a superiority complex. A French girl, writing to the Chicago Daily News, perhaps comes nearer the truth when she says Americans really have an inferiority complex. Most of us over here come to believe, because we hear it so often, that imported goods are the best. English tweed is the real thing. German universities are the best in the world; our doctors must study in Vienna; our musicians must go abroad; French bread is better than American bread, and imported Christmas cards and automobiles are the finest. We pay more for poor Swiss cheese made in Switzerland and pay less for excellent Swiss made in New York or Wisconsin. To feel the way we do about many kinds of foreign goods is partly a pose and partly mere ignorance.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, June 7. — The Big Town always has a Murder Row. A long time ago the most conspicuous place of sudden death was in Broadway, between Houston and Bleecker streets. In other periods there were the Barracks, in 37th street, west of Tenth avenue; Bella's Kitchen, in 39th street; Milligan Alley, in 43rd street; and, of course, the Bowery. All these in time became respectable or disappeared. Now the toughest place in New York is on the docks, in the lacy shadows of Brooklyn Bridge, on the side opposite Manhattan.

There gangs practice murder among themselves and inflict it on each other. When the other day Ed McGuire was found face down on a pier with blood pouring from his chest, he was the tenth man to die in the struggle for the leadership of the old Bill Lovett gang, terrors of the docks. Others envied Lovett his power, and one morning he was found with his skull crushed, his brain being the light for the first time. Various aspirants arose and had brief glory. McGuire rolled over with others for the gang leadership. He won—and lost.

In New York there isn't any underworld in the sense of a particular district, as there used to be. A lot of pimps are less painful and less conspicuous than one big bull, the police keep the inquiries scattered, instead of segregated.

The lower classes of crooks, which simply means those with small or no bankrolls, naturally are to be found here and there among the rest of the poor. The big crooks, invariably, are big spenders. "Easy come, easy go" and are to be seen at the Broadway hits, smartest night clubs and exclusive hostesses and apartment houses.

Leaving the theater a few nights ago, my wife indicated two familiarly acquainted, gentlemanly appearing men accompanied by young and beautiful women, who were getting into a limousine, and wondered if they were scions of aristocratic families. I was able to assure her positively that they were not, but that they were an internationally famous gambler, and another the chieftain of a bootlegging ring.

Suggestions.

(The Drain Pipe.) Many housewives clean out both top and bottom of the refrigerator once a week, but neglect the drain pipe. This is most important, as it really gets more clogged and dirty than any other section of the icebox. Don't neglect it; it is unhealthy to forget it.

(Requested Recipe.) I have been requested for a coffee cake recipe containing almond paste and chopped almonds. I cannot find one with almond paste in, but here is one with the almonds:

Cincinnati Coffee Bread—Put one-third cup sugar, one-third cup butter and one-half teaspoon salt in bowl, and pour over cup scalded milk. When lukewarm add one yeast cake, dissolved in one-fourth cup lukewarm water, two eggs slightly beaten, and enough flour to make a stiff batter. Cover and let rise until mixture has doubled its bulk. Cut down, beat thoroughly and spread evenly in two buttered, round layer cake tins. Sprinkle with nut mixture, let rise and bake in hot oven 40 minutes. Nut mixture—Mix two tablespoons sugar and three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon, and add three-fourths cup soft, stale bread crumbs, two tablespoons melted butter and three tablespoons chopped, blanched almonds.

form it is very good for clearing the intestines occasionally. The discharge your daughter has, undoubtedly is the oil. That is one of the drawbacks of taking mineral oil in large doses. Another thing that has to be thought of is this: Some new work has shown that mineral oil may absorb the vitamins from the food, if taken in too large doses over any prolonged period of time.

It is the consensus of opinion among physicians and surgeons that if the appendix bothers you, it is much better to have it out, for the possibility of its lighting up and giving another acute attack which may be very serious is very great. Recently it has been demonstrated that certain inflammatory conditions of the ovaries and tubes will clear up under rest, diathermy (electric heat) and the ultra-violet rays. Perhaps this treatment will prove effective in clearing up inflammation of the appendix.

For those who are interested, we have an article on constipation. The column rules for obtaining firmwhicheforatbmf wwy wyny material are to enclose (1) a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and (2) 2 cents in coin for all articles except the reducing and gaining pamphlet, for which 10 cents in coin and the self-addressed envelope are required.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 7.—You find as chatty an aggregation as any kindergarten could ask for.

The senators are quite an elderly outfit of old geezers, mind you. You'd suppose the loss of an entire night's sleep would wear on 'em—a son of 'em, the oldest, most decrepit among 'em, anyway—his ages run away up to nearly 70.

How do they stand such an experience?—and still seem so bright and wakeful?

It's all guff!—that's the answer. They haven't lost much sleep. They've snoozed more and there. On the senate floor they've spelled one another. Generally there haven't been half a dozen at any one time in the chamber. Mostly, they've been having a corking good time among themselves—out in the cloak room, down in the restaurant, or over in the Senate Office building.

They've had a lovely little party, and they're in a position to give first-class account of "oneselves when finally they do get home and find the misadventure waiting up for 'em with a rolling pin."

Of course, I don't mean to suggest that these celebrations aren't entirely harmless.

They are. There's no bar in the Capitol these times. It's all perfect quiet and orderly—and lawful—except, possibly, for a few hip flasks—and, with old men, like these, who may actually need a little stimulation, they're only medicinal.

In all sincerity, the senators consider that they're undergoing terrible hardships in the national interest—and they're martyrs to public service—all that kind of stuff.

But if filibusters were ruled out, it would take half the fun out of the United States senate.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

The Old or the New

Youth is a delightful time, but it is harrowing, too. From the time one begins to notice menbers of the opposite sex—and that is younger than some seem to think—one is apt to be agitated. Letters from some of my young friends indicate that they would be perfectly happy if a certain person loved them if they could be sure. Others don't make a bit of difference between the sexes, and are disconsolate in consequence—and naturally so. And the popular ones cannot make up their minds which of their numerous admirers to encourage.

The following letter is from a girl who is hesitating between her old and her new friend. Let us see if we can help her out.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am very much puzzled over what seems to be my first real love affair. I am 17 years old and a high school student. For over two years I have been what I thought very much in love with a fellow more than five years my senior. I am sure he liked me as a friend, but he has been playing the part of a lover for over a year.

At first I did not go out with other fellows, but found out he is going with another girl. When I asked him about her he only laughed and told me that I knew whether he loved me or loved her. That is just what I want to know. Since last January I decided I would go out with other fellows. But this does not please him. A month ago I met a young man who is nice looking and mannerly and is about 19. My old friend objects to my new friend coming to meet me and accompanying me home from places. My parents think the old boy friend is too settled for me, and my mother met my new friend and liked him. I enjoy myself just as much with my new friend, who does not try to make love to me, as I ever did with the old one. Every one of my friends, young or old, I ask, tell me to use my own judgment."

I think you are too young to engage yourself to the older fellow, and, as you like the new friend who is nearer your age, just as well, I think you should go with him, too. The first friend evidently does not consider himself engaged to you or he would not feel free to go with another girl. His attitude is a bit dog in the mangerish, isn't it? Have a good time with different boys for a few years and then you will be ready to settle to one.

Peter's Adventure

BRINGING IN THE SHEEP

"Not another word would Trumpeter say. Off he trotted as fast as his long legs would carry him."

Bobolink continued the story. "Wide awake, Mrs. Trumpeter, and I flew up to a branch in the tree above us to see the better."

"Would you believe it, Mex, the dog, and our old friend, the longlegged bird—good friends once more—were driving home the sheep!"

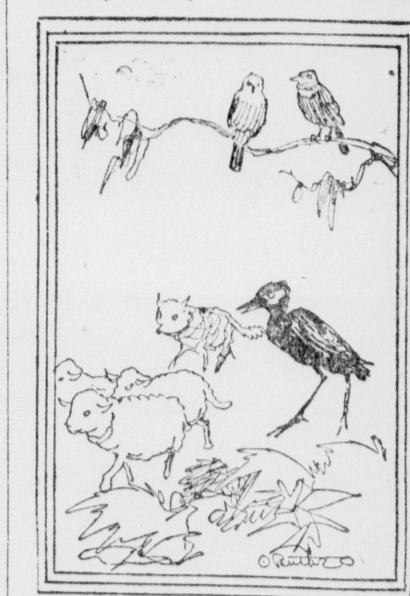

"As soon as one of the flock would stray from the path, Trumpeter would run to the wanderer's side and, giving him a sharp nip with his bill, send the stray sheep scurrying back to the fold again, while Mex ran barking at the heels of the crowd. One fat sheep took it into his head to run away, but he didn't get far. Mex hung on the end of his tail and brought him back where he belonged in no time."

"Both the dog and the bird acted as if they enjoyed their job, too. Straight through the gate and into the yard, where the sheep were to send the night, and the two shepherds drove their charges."

"We waited and waited for Trumpeter and Mex to come back, but they didn't. Perhaps they stood guard while the sheep slept. At any rate, we never saw either of them again."

Sonny-Bunny had been listen-

"MEX, the DOG and OUR OLD FRIEND TRUMPETER, were DRIVING HOME the SHEEP."

ing to the story with his little pink mouth wide open, and now the little rabbit asked:

"But why not? Didn't Trumpeter come next morning to ask you how you were getting along?"

Bobolink chuckled. "Maybe he did. I am sure I don't know. But he couldn't find us because we were there."

Broadway Picking Giants To Snare Pennant

REDS' FUTURE WILL DEPEND ON ABILITY OF SECOND SACKER

Walsh Thinks Team's Future Rests With
Hughie Critz

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 7.—For some reason or maybe none at all, Broadway has decided that the New York Giants are going to win the National League pennant and is making its bets accordingly. In several of the up-to-date rooms today, the Giants were held at the rather short price of 2 to 1, whereas one could get a half dollar extra for one's money provided it was riding on the Reds, Cubs or Cardinals. The Pirates were 3 to 1. There may be sense in these odds but not much.

Wall Street, for example, knows the nickel just how much a bet should be worth and has rated the five admitted contenders in a dead heat somewhere in the neighborhood of 3 to 1, which is as it should be, considering the fact that the Reds, Cards, Giants and Cubs are separated by only three games and the Pirates are conceded to be better than they have looked to date. This point, in fact, is very well taken. They couldn't be worse.

The fact of the matter is that there isn't a stand-out club in the big five and, if the so-called sharpshooters are betting the Giants, they are doing so on a hunch. McGraw's abiding difficulty has been to get more than two pitchers who can go out there and finish what they started. The outfit has made its share of errors and Jackson, once a "perfect" shortstop, has blown himself to a most indifferent season so far. But pitching, or lack of it, is the Giants' halter, in the final analysis or in the first, for that matter. They say McGraw could have had Burwell, who finally landed with the Pirates from Indianapolis; it is true, in any case, that he made an effort to bid in Clarence Mitchell, who has remained in the league well past his time purely on his ability to harass the Giants. He relieved Alexander and helped to beat them again yesterday, so maybe McGraw is due to release another interview. The last one made him say that he was satisfied with the Giants' pitching.

However, there isn't a contender that hasn't left some question unanswered to date. With the Reds, the question is whether Critz, around whom the success of the outfit revolves, will be able to carry his pace through the warm months ahead. They say he is bolted down some twelve pounds under his normal weight already. You can bet about the hitting of Callaghan, Pritchard and Purdy and the day to day effectiveness of Cincinnati pitching but, when you have spoken your little piece, the situation reverts to this fact: unless they can continue to reel off their remarkable run of double plays, via Critz, the Reds are just a ball club.

The Cards have been weakened so far at a point where everyone expected them to be strong. Alexander and Haines, who won some forty-two games between them last year, have won only about half of their games and Sherdel also is having an ordinary season. Rhem and Reinhardt have been carrying the club and the intellectuals claim Reinhardt won't sand properly. Anyway, the Cardinals look no better than anybody else in the race, which automatically prohibits a comparison with the Pirates. They simply have been shot to pieces with one thing and another, mostly both, but they have too much speed to run in the company they are keeping at present.

As for the Cubs, they seem to be facing the old question of balance. Any club looks great when it is winning and the Cubs looked even better than that when they were rushing through thirteen straight earlier in the year. Since then, however, they have dropped nine of their last fifteen, most of them on the road. The records seem to prove that the Cubs are not a good traveling club.

RESERVES TO PLAY SPRINGFIELD TEAM

Reserves have booked a baseball game with the Bartlett Clothing Co., Springfield team, for Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, the local management announces. The game will probably be called at 3 P. M.

Reserves have won seven in a row and from present indications it will take nothing short of a railroad wreck to stop them.

Sportistory

Thursday, June 7

Tom Spring, claimant of the English heavyweight title, won on a foul in the forty-ninth round from Jack Langan in two hours and twenty-nine minutes of fighting at Worcester, England, 1924. Fifty thousand saw the fight.

Babe Ruth hit his eighteenth homer of the 1927 season.

Harry Greb, one time light heavyweight champion of the world, was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., 1894. He died several years ago.

Cleveland scored four runs in each of the fourth and ninth innings, but Washington scored six in the second and four in the fifth to win, 1927.

SMITH WILL FILE

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Harry C. Smith, negro publisher of Cleveland, has applied to Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown for term to file for both short and long term as U. S. senator and also for governor. It was learned today. Smith is a Republican.

CENTRAL HIGH V ANQUISHES ST. BRIGID HIGH IN LEAGUE GAME

Breaking a 5 to 5 tie, Central High School's softball team produced a six-run rally in the ninth inning to cause the defeat of St. Brigid High School 11 to 5 in a National League game at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Wednesday night.

The contest was played in a drizzling rain and both teams were shy one man, playing with only eight players in the lineup.

Gibney, Central pitcher, and a mound duel for eight innings. Central scored four runs in the first inning but Campbell put on the brakes and held his opponents to one run in the next seven rounds.

St. Brigid meanwhile tied up the score by counting two runs in the first, one in the third and two in the sixth. Then came the six-run spurge in the ninth which settled the issue.

It was the second straight victory for Central High and gives the team a .500 rating for four games played. St. Brigid dropped its fourth straight game.

Thursday night The Downtown Country Club will take a fling at the undefeated record of the Fire-Campbell, St. Brigid hurler, staged men in a National League game.

Central High lineup: Shaffer, cf; Bell, cf; Higgins, ss; Gibney, p; Smittle, 3b; Tull, c; Bice, 2b; Stevenson, lb.

How Much Water Should Baby Get?
A Famous Authority's Rule
By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottles contain thirty-five doses.

HUDSON
On the Open Road

Where great performance is Master Indeed!

Its performance has centered on Hudson the most dramatic public interest ever extended any car. Thousands, riding daily, are carrying the story world-wide.

They tell us that they travel faster in city traffic, because of flashing getaway, swift, smooth acceleration and instantaneous control that easy steering and four-wheel braking give.

This extra range and activity of Hudson power, as everyone knows, are advantages exclusive to the Super-Six principle and to its companion invention on which patents recently were granted.

In every phase of performance there is effortless ease, from its smooth, swift getaway, to sustained high speed, and back to the soft instantaneous stopping action of its four-wheel brakes. Power is so smoothly delivered in all ranges of performance that you are scarcely conscious of it.

With the development and increased capacity of the Super-Six principle came also the creation of a chassis engineered in every detail to provide safely, continuously and economically for the speed, power and safety of the motor.

A thrill, never to be forgotten, is in store for you when you take your first ride in the new Hudson Super-Six.

Why you can pick them . . . in the dark

Three types of leaves grow on the tobacco plant . . . coarse top-leaves, irritating to the throat . . . withered ground-leaves, without taste or aroma . . . and the heart-leaves, rich in cool and fragrant smoking qualities. Only the heart-leaves are used in OLD GOLDS.

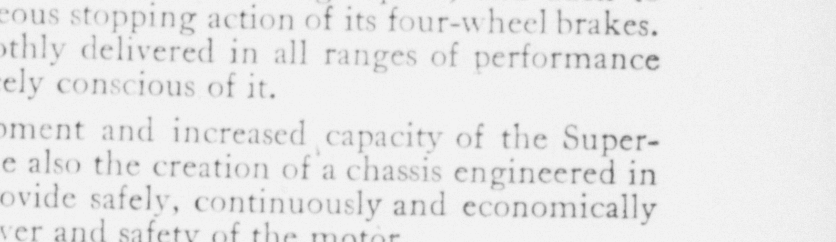

How this test was made

The test was conducted by the representative of a leading Eastern University and a disinterested witness selected by them. Mr. Warner was asked to smoke each of the four leading brands while blindfolded, clearing his tastewit with coffee between smokes. Only one question was asked: "Which one do you like best?"

Broadway Picking Giants To Snare Pennant

REDS' FUTURE WILL DEPEND ON ABILITY OF SECOND SACKER

Walsh Thinks Team's Future Rests With Hughie Critz

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 7.—For some reason or maybe none at all, Broadway has decided that the New York Giants are going to win the National League pennant and is making its bets accordingly. In several of the up-town pool rooms today, the Giants were held at the rather short price of 2 to 1, whereas one could get a half dollar extra for one's money provided it was riding on the Reds, Cubs or Cardinals. The Pirates were 3 to 1. There may be sense in these odds but not much.

Wall Street, for example, knows to the nickel just how much a bet should be worth and has rated the five admitted contenders in a dead heat somewhere in the neighborhood of 3 to 1, which is as it should be, considering the fact that the Reds, Cards, Giants and Cubs are separated by only three games and the Pirates are conceded to be better than they have looked to date. This point, in fact, is very well taken. There couldn't be worse. The fact of the matter is that there isn't a stand-out club in the big five and, if the so-called sharpshooters are betting the Giants, they are doing so on a hunch. McGraw's abiding difficulty has been to get more than two pitchers who can go out there and finish what they started. The outfit has made its share of errors and Jackson, once a "perfect" shortstop, is a blown himself to a most indifferent season so far. But pitching, or lack of it, is the Giants' halter, in the final analysis or in the first, for that matter. They say McGraw could have had Burwell, who finally landed with the Pirates from Indianapolis, if it is true, in any case, that he made no effort to bid in Clarence Mitchell, who has remained in the league well past his time purely on his ability to harass the Giants. He relieved Alexander and helped to beat them again yesterday, so maybe McGraw is due to release another interview. The last one made him say that he was satisfied with the Giants' pitching.

However, there isn't a contender that hasn't left some question unanswered to date. With the Reds, the question is whether Critz, around whom the success of the outfit revolves, will be able to carry his pace through the warm months ahead. They say he is a boiled down some twelve pounds under his normal weight already. You can bet about the hitting of Callaghan, Pincich and Purdy and the day to day effectiveness of Cincinnati pitching but, when you have spoken your little piece, the situation reverts to this fact: unless they can continue to reel off their remarkable run of double plays, via Critz, the Reds are just a ball club.

The Cards have been weakened so far at a point where everyone expected them to be strong. Alexander and Haines, who won some forty-two games between them last year, have won only about half of their games and Sherdel also is having an ordinary season. Rhem and Reinhardt have been carrying the club and the intellectuals claim Reinhardt won't sand prosper. Anyhow, the Cardinals look no better than anybody else in the race, which automatically prohibits a comparison with the Pirates. They simply have been shot to pieces with one thing and another, mostly both, but they have too much speed to run in the company they are keeping at present.

As for the Cubs, they seem to be facing the old question of balance. Any club looks great when it is winning and the Cubs looked even better than that when they were rushing through thirteen straight earlier in the year. Since then, however, they have dropped nine of their last fifteen, most of them on the road. The records seem to prove that the Cubs are not a good traveling club.

RESERVES TO PLAY SPRINGFIELD TEAM

Reserves have booked a baseball game with the Bartlett Clothing Co., Springfield team, for Sunday afternoon at Washington Park, the local management announces. The game will probably be called at 3 p. m.

Reserves have won seven in a row and from present indications it will take nothing short of a railroad wreck to stop them.

CENTRAL HIGH V ANQUISHES ST. BRIGID HIGH IN LEAGUE GAME

Breaking a 5 to 5 tie, Central High School's softball team produced a six-run rally in the ninth inning to cause the defeat of St. Brigid High School 11 to 5 in a National League game at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Wednesday night.

The contest was played in a drizzling rain and both teams were shy one man, playing with only eight players in the lineup. Glibney, Central pitcher, and a mound duel for eight innings. Central scored four runs in the first inning but Campbell put on the brakes and held his opponents to one run in the next seven rounds.

St. Brigid meanwhile tied up the score by counting two runs in the first, one in the third and two in the sixth. Then came the six-run spurge in the ninth which settled the issue.

It was the second straight victory for Central High and gives the team a .500 rating for four games played. St. Brigid dropped its fourth straight game.

Thursday night The Downtown Country Club will take a fling at the undefeated record of the Fire-Campbell. St. Brigid hurler, staged men in a National League game.

Bowling

Scoring 854 in the last five of his ten required games, J. B. Bice failed to displace the present leader of the bowling tournament in progress to decide the city championship.

He had previously bowled 794 giving him a ten-game total of 1,648. Hollis Peterson is still leading the race with 1,984. Bice had scores of 148, 194, 175, 148 and 189 for his last five games.

Frame totalled 881 for his first five games, with scores of 201, 161, 178, 178 and 163, a total too low to threaten the leader.

The winner of the tournament also receives a new bowling ball as a prize.

RAILROAD BEGINS SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Announcement is made by local officials that the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. is inaugurating an intensive campaign to reduce to a minimum the number of grade crossing accidents in 1928.

The company is again placarding all crossings possible in this vicinity and in schools and public buildings.

Statistics show that there are 23,125,000 registered autos on the country's 3,000,000 miles of highways, it following that there will be tragedies at some of the 235,158 railroad highway crossings.

It is pointed out that in 1927 there were 5,640 accidents at railroad crossings, with 2,371 persons killed and 6,613 injured. Autos were involved in 89 per cent of the crashes and more than 1,100 instances occurred of autos colliding with the side of trains.

How Much Water Should Baby Get?

A Famous Authority's Rule
By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ailments of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution: Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottles contain thirty-five doses.

The convention offers one of the biggest problems in gathering and disseminating news ever to face a press association. For this reason elaborate arrangements have been made so that clients of I. N. TWO FIREMEN HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Two Columbus firemen are in a hospital here today suffering from injuries received late yesterday when a fire truck crashed into an auto while making a run to a fire.

The injured men are William Juegast, 35, whose knee was dislocated when he jumped from the truck, and George Strait, 36, who received a sprained wrist.

The driver of the automobile which was hit by the truck, Martin McAtee, 45, truck farmer, Pataskala, was uninjured although his car was driven across the street by the force of the crash. The fire truck was a seven-ton pumper.

FALSE TEETH TIE UP TRAIN

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. J.—A. G. Bush, veteran engineer on the Hodgeville & Elizabethtown railroad was running his train to Elizabethtown when he leaned out of his cab, sneezed, and his false teeth dropped to the ground. The train ran nearly half a mile before he could stop and back it to the scene of the disaster. A frantic search was unavailing, and Bush started the train again, but without the teeth, leaving a searching party behind. After a few minutes he looked back and discovered that one of the searchers was frantically waving at him. Bush took his train back the second time, recovered his property, and then resumed the journey with the puzzled passengers without further interruption.

MAY CANCEL RACES

NORWALK, O., June 7.—Unless there is a marked improvement in the weather, the entire program of the short ship racing meet here will be called off, racing officials intimated today. The races scheduled to start Tuesday were again postponed yesterday, due to rain.

PENNSY SUED FOR
$150,000 DAMAGES

CINCINNATI, O., June 7.—Seeking to recover $150,000 as damages for personal injuries, John P. Skaggs, of Portsmouth, Ohio, today had filed suit in the United States District Court here naming the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as defendant.

The suit alleges that Skaggs, a railway brakeman in the defendant company's employ, was thrown to the ground, his left hand and a portion of his arm was mangled, necessitating amputation, when a lump of coal fell from a car he was boarding knocking him from the car and under the wheels of the train. The lump of coal was dislodged, he averred, by reason of the sudden and unusually violent jerk of the train. The suit claims Skaggs also sustained a fractured skull and severe concussion of the brain, impairing the normal functions of his brain and vision.

The accident occurred between Mingo Junction and Webb Mine, Ohio, on January 10, last.

ART OUT OF LIFE

Clare Sheridan has achieved notable success as a sculptor. She is a good writer. I do not know what else she can do brilliantly and well, but I suspect that her talents are innumerable, and that she can do well whatever she determines to do.

It is extremely interesting to me to learn that Clare Sheridan was not brought up in an art school. She was reared as a London society woman, in the midst of a vast amount of pretense and display. Her parents tried to shape her career so that she would capture a wealthy husband. She disappointed this expectation by marrying Wilfred Sheridan and he was killed in the war.

Mrs. Sheridan became a sculptor because there was within her something she felt she must express in sculpture. Her second baby died, after a short life of suffering during which it had endeared itself to her as only a sick and beautiful child can endear itself to a tender-hearted mother.

The bereaved mother did not want to buy a marble tombstone for the baby. She wanted to express her own grief and memory, rather than hire a stonecutter to try to do it for her. So she set to work to model a little memorial panel, with her baby's face and figure on it.

She went to a pottery to see how modeling in clay was done. She took home some clay, and presently was deeply engrossed in performing a labor that helped her to express her feeling. She really got the expression of her dead child into the modeled figure, but it took a long time.

Well, that's how Clare Sheridan became a sculptor. She relates the incidents, without the interpretation I have given them, in her autobiography, "Naked Truth," recently published by Harpers.

TWO FIREMEN HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—Two Columbus firemen are in a hospital today suffering from injuries received late yesterday when a fire truck crashed into an auto while making a run to a fire.

The injured men are William Jungst, 35, whose knee was dislocated when he jumped from the truck, and George Strait, 36, who received a sprained wrist.

The driver of the automobile which was hit by the truck, Martin McAtee, 45, truck farmer, Pataskala, was uninjured although his car was driven across the street by the force of the crash. The fire truck was a seven-ton pumper.

FALSE TEETH TIE UP TRAIN

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. J.—A. G. Bush, veteran engineer on the Hodgeville & Elizabethtown railroad was running his train to Elizabethtown when he leaned out of his cab, sneezed, and his false teeth dropped to the ground. The train ran nearly half a mile before he could stop and back it to the scene of the disaster. A frantic search was made, and Bush started the train again, but without the teeth, leaving a searching party behind. After a few minutes he looked back and discovered that one of the searchers was frantically waving at him. Bush took his train back the second time, recovered his property, and then resumed the journey with the puzzled passengers without further interruption.

REPORT OF COUNTY NURSE SHOWS WORK DURING ONE MONTH

Covering a large scope of work since entering her duties here, Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, Greene County nurse, is announcing her report for May.

She attended one pre-natal case, twenty-four in infant care, delivered twenty-six mothers' certificates, attended twelve pre-school cases and thirty-six school hygiene with follow-up calls.

Five tonsil and adenoid operations were taken care of during the month, with nine general cases, three tuberculosis and two crippled children. Seventy-one children were inspected at the Greene County Home, all of whom were given the Schick test, thirty being positive cases and immunized and thirty vaccinated.

Mrs. Wittenmyer attended five meetings during May and held six office consultations. She also gave eighty-seven children in the Bellbrook schools, toxin anti-toxin.

FEW CANDIDATES AS DEADLINE NEARING

County Commissioner J. H. Lackey, confirming his previous announcement that he would be a candidate for re-election for a second term, has filed his formal declaration of candidacy for renomination at the August primary with R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the Board of Elections.

June 15 at midnight is the deadline date for filing petitions of candidacy and many public office seekers are expected to file within the next few days.

IMAGINATION IS UNKNOWN QUALITY

CLEVELAND, O., June 7.—Dr. Bertha M. Luckley, chief of the local public school psychological clinic although she has made an intensive study of imagination declared that she has not as yet discovered what it is.

"The problem is to discover just what imagination is," Dr. Luckley asserted. "When we find it we will need to find some way to train it."

"So far it would seem that education has contributed very little to imagination. Many of the greatest writers of creative literature had very little formal schooling. Thomas Edison never went to college.

"Imagination without order is merely fancy. Imagination that is directed toward progress, that is already apparent in the first or second grades. They are full of imagination. Imaginative stories like 'The Little Red Hen' children brought up in the country understand the story. City children, as a rule miss it entirely. Few big city children have ever seen a hen.

"People who succeed in life are people with imagination."

S.S.S.

UNDERNEATH a clear, smooth skin, healthy tissues—full of rich, red blood—thrive. No worry about pimples now. Instead there is a certain satisfaction that gives confidence.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's way of building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that awful complexion will disappear.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did."

REPORT OF COUNTY NURSE SHOWS WORK DURING ONE MONTH

Covering a large scope of work since entering her duties here, Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, Greene County nurse, is announcing her report for May.

She attended one pre-natal case, twenty-four in infant care, delivered twenty-six mothers' certificates; attended twelve pre-school cases and thirty-six school hygiene with follow-up calls.

Five tonsil and adenoid operations were taken care of during the month, with nine general cases, three tuberculosis and two crippled children. Seventy-one children were inspected at the Greene County Home, all of whom were given the Schick test, thirty being positive cases and immunized and thirty vaccinated.

Mrs. Wittenmyer attended five meetings during May and held six office consultations. She also gave eighty-seven children in the Bellbrook schools, toxin anti-toxin.

FEW CANDIDATES AS DEADLINE NEARING

County Commissioner J. H. Lackey, confirming his previous announcement that he would be a candidate for re-election for a second term, has filed his formal declaration of candidacy for re-nomination at the August primary with R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the Board of Elections.

June 15 at midnight is the deadline date for filing petitions of candidacy and many public office seekers are expected to file within the next few days.

IMAGINATION IS UNKNOWN QUALITY

CLEVELAND, O., June 7—Dr. Bertha M. Luckley, chief of the local public school psychological clinic although she has made an intensive study of imagination declared that she has not as yet discovered what it is.

"The problem is to discover just what imagination is," Dr. Luckley asserted. "When we find it we will need to find some way to train it."

"So far it would seem that education has contributed very little to imagination. Many of the greatest writers of creative literature had very little formal schooling. Thomas Edison never went to college."

"Imagination without order is merely fancy. But imagination that is directed leads to progress. It is already apparent that we shall have to revise our reading books, especially in the first two or three grades. They are full of imagination. Imaginative stories like 'The Little Red Hen' children brought up in the country understand the story. City children, as a rule miss it entirely. Few big city children have ever seen a hen."

"People who succeed in life are people with imagination."

Chicago Chatter

BY LONE QUINBY

CHICAGO, June 7.—"Stage struck" was the term that used to be applied to the small-town girl who, reading of success to be had in theatrical life, ran away from home to find the "pot of gold" behind the footlights. Then came the movies, and hundreds of girls cut homes and started for Hollywood. The age of these girls on the average was eighteen. Beauty and pep, it appeared, were synonymous with the call of the klieg and footlights.

With middle age rejuvenated through the fashion of short skirts and bobbed hair, however, the age of stage struck movie struck femininity has moved up fifteen, twenty and even forty years. Likewise, the aspirants are gleaned now in biggest numbers from the large cities.

Recently a theatrical company requiring a new coterie of chorus girls advertised it would talk to aspirants on a certain day in one of the "Loop" theaters. The girls were told to walk across the stage to show stage presence, grace, ankles and smiles. Three hundred girls and women, all the way from sixteen to sixty, took the test. There were five mothers on the list who took the test with their daughters.

So persistent were some of these women, who fifteen and twenty years ago probably would have been horrified at the thought of showing their legs on the stage, that when the final successful contestants were named, they refused to accept defeat. The manager was obliged to call in a policeman to clear the stage, which all but precipitated a riot.

Ohio and Virginia may be famed as the birthplaces of presidents, but Chicago is getting to be known as the birthplace and "home town" of some of Hollywood's brightest movie stars. On the list of stars born in Chicago, who made good in Hollywood are: Gloria Swanson, Clara Kimball Young, Milton Sills, Myrtle Stedman, Mary Philbin, Tom Gallery, Sue Carroll, Rod LaRouque, Virginia Valli, Bryant Washburn, Dorothy Dalton, Blanche Sweet, Roxanna McGowan, Mollie O'Connell, Alfred Whitman, Alma Aiken, Leah Baird, Neva Gerber, Helen Holmes, Frances Manilla Kaye, Mable Van Buren, Teddy Dean, "Baby" Zee Rae and Grace Stevens.

Whereas New York has gained much fame as the "subway" town, utilizing space beneath the earth crust, Chicago is moving—in a degree at least—up to the skyline. Chicago's newest and most fashionable colony, instead of building homes in Lake Forest and other north-shore suburbs, is moving into bungalows in the wide open spaces

FARM FOR SALE

Land is the basis of all wealth. This farm is located just west of Jamestown, Ohio, and right up against the corporation line. Bounded on the north by the B. & O. Railroad for 150 rods. On the south by a good road 160 rods. Where you have the Dayton Power and Light system right at your door everywhere along the road. This block of near 100 acres includes the heart of the black belt just west of the town. No buildings on it. A few fruit trees and but two virgin forest trees standing. One a burr oak, the other an elm, which you know is a guarantee of the fertility of the soil. And within a stone's throw of a suburb of the town called Cottonville. This type of western soil has within the last century produced a type of brazen men who are today the leaders of the whole world, along every great line of human endeavor. Let me name a few of them, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison, Luther Burbank, Henry Ford, Charles Lindbergh, we can throw in the Elmer Ganttrys and false prophets. This ideal block of land with every acre of it as clean as a hound's tooth, and all in grass with practically new fences all around it, and right up against the town, that is headquarters of one of the most swell bus lines in all the country, where you can get out and back again to Springfield, Xenia, Washington C. H. and where not. Every two hours, six and seven times a day if you want to.

If you doubt any part of this ad come over and we shall be glad by your vision to eliminate your mistakes. Being disposed of on account of an antiquated family having been wiped off the map, leaving 225 heirs scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to S. America. To be sold at auction to the highest bidder at the Court House in Xenia, O., Saturday, June 23, 1928 at 10:00 A. M.

Chicago Chatter

BY J. IONE QUINBY

CHICAGO, June 7.—"Stage struck" was the term that used to be applied to the small-town girl, reading of success to be had in theatrical life, ran away from home to find the "pot of gold" behind the footlights.

Then came the movies, and hundreds of girls cut home ties and started for Hollywood. The age of these girls, on the average was eighteen. Beauty and pep, it appeared, were synonymous with the call of the klieg and footlights.

With middle age rejuvenated through the fashion of short skirts and bobbed hair, however, the age of stage struck movie struck femininity has moved up fifteen, twenty and even forty years. Likewise, the aspirants are gleaned now in the biggest numbers from the large cities.

Recently a theatrical company requiring a new coterie of chorus girls advertised it would talk to aspirants on a certain day in one of the "Loop" theaters. The girls were told to walk across the stage to show stage presence, grace, ankles and smiles. Three hundred girls and women, all the way from sixteen to sixty, took the test.

There were five mothers on the list who took the test with their daughters. So persistent were some of these women, who fifteen and twenty years ago probably would have been horrified at the thought of showing their legs on the stage, that when the final successful contestants were named, they refused to accept defeat. The manager was obliged to call in a policeman to clear the stage, which all but precipitated a riot.

Ohio and Virginia may be famed as the birthplace of presidents, but Chicago is getting to be known as the birthplace and "home town" of some of Hollywood's brightest movie stars. On the list of stars born in Chicago, who made good in Hollywood are: Gloria Swanson, Clara Kimball Young, Milton Sills, Myrtle Stedman, Mary Philbin, Tom Gallery, Sue Carroll, Rod LaRouque, Virginia Valli, Bryant Washburn, Dorothy Dalton, Blanche Sweet, Roxanna McGowan, Mollie O'Connell, Alfred Whitman, Alma Aiken, Lena Baird, Nova Gerber, Helen Holmes, Frances Manilla Kaye, Mable Van Buren, Teddy Dean, "Baby" Zoo Rae and Grace Stevens.

Whereas New York has gained much fame as the "subway" town, utilizing space beneath the earth crust, Chicago is moving in a degree at least up to the skyline. Chicago's newest and most fashionable colony, instead of building homes in Lake Forest and other north-shore suburbs, is moving into bungalows in the wide open spaces.

on the roofs of skyscrapers. Here they enjoy all the comforts of a suburban home, even to grass plot and flowers. Added to this, all they need to do is to take an elevator ride of two minutes and they are right in the heart of the city.

There is also a marvelous view of Lake Michigan to be obtained from these bungalows built on the top of twenty, thirty and forty-story skyscraper hotels and apartment buildings. The John Drakes, whose son married former Governor Frank O. Lowden's daughter, is one of the skyscraper bungalow colony. Three downtown hotels have bungalows on their roofs, which they usually keep vacant to accommodate such special guests as President Coolidge and Gene Tunney.

HOME SICK FOR XENIA

I'm going back to dear old Xenia. Back to the place where my old home used to be; I want to play once again on the school ground.

My heart is longing the old school mates to see. I'd love to wander again through the schoolhouse.

Where as a child I was taught from day to day.

In fancy now I am listening to my teacher. With other loved ones has long since passed away.

I'm going back to dear old Xenia. Back to the place where I first saw light of day.

There's where I spent my childhoods happy hours. And with my school mates, long hours we used to play. Though years have passed by the old home's deserted, I'm going back upon an early morn.

"No place on earth do I love more sincerely."

Than dear old Xenia, the place where I was born.

FARM FOR SALE

Land is the basis of all wealth. This farm is located just west of Jamestown, Ohio, and right up against the corporation line. Bounded on the north by the R. & O. Railroad for 150 rods. On the south by a good road 160 rods. Where you have the Dayton Power and Light system right at your door every-where along the road. This block of near 100 acres includes the heart of the black belt just west of the town. No buildings on it. A few fruit trees and but two virgin forest trees standing. One a burr oak, the other an elm, which you know is a guarantee of the fertility of the soil. And within a stone's throw of a suburb of the town called Cottonville. This type of western soil has within the last century produced a type of brainy men who are today the leaders of the whole world, along every great line of human endeavor. Let me name a few of them, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison, Luther Burbank, Henry Ford, Charles Lindbergh, we can throw in the Elmer Ganttrys and false prophets. This ideal block of land with every acre of it as clean as a hound's tooth, and all in grass with practically new fences all around it, and right up against the town, that is headquarters of one of the most swell bus lines in all the country, where you can get out and back again to Springfield, Xenia, Washington C. H. and where not. Every two hours, six and seven times a day if you want to.

If you doubt any part of this ad come over and we shall be glad by your vision to eliminate your mistakes. Being disposed of on account of an unqualified family having been wiped off the map, leaving 225 heirs scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to S. America. To be sold at auction to the highest bidder at the Court House in Xenia, O., Saturday, June 23, 1928 at 10:00 A. M.

Farm Notes

PRICE TREND UP
The price level of Ohio farm products as a whole has increased eight points since the first of the year, or from 141 in January to 149 in April, according to J. I. Falconer, chief of the department of Rural Economics of the Ohio Experiment Station.
In 1927 the prices of farm products tended to sag from January to April. The reverse was true for the first months of this year, largely because of the higher prices for grain.
This increase in price level has not brought a corresponding increase in the farmer's income. In Falconer's report out in the bi-monthly bulletin of the Station because of the small amount of grain on the farms to sell and to the heavy marketing of Ohio hogs in January and February before the price of hogs advanced.
For the first four months of 1928 the gross cash income from sales of agricultural products from Ohio farms was $9 when compared with the average for the same months for the three years, 1924 to 1926. The average for the first four months in 1927 was 96, or 7 points higher than the same months this year.
The farm products price for Ohio was ten points above the average for the United States. The Ohio farm labor level was 172, the general wage level of New York factory workers 233, both approximately the same as they were a year ago.

Radio Revue

NEW YORK, June 7.—A few days ago we observed in this column that the United States has a free press and a free air. As this is written, the freedom of the air is in danger.
A private concern, the Radio Corporation of America, is endeavoring to secure a monopoly on trans-oceanic short wave radio channels. Newspapers are battling to prevent RCA from obtaining that monopoly.
Louis M. Loeb, of the New York Times, presenting the press as a whole, in protests filed with the federal radio commission, spoke plainly of RCA's claim when he said:
"Never have we heard, since the early days of the Republic, of such a bold request to any commission or body asking for a complete, absolute monopoly, to the exclusion of every vestige of conceivable competition, as was made here in asking for the exclusive use of the air. To this we do object!"
Radio Corporation, which is jointly controlled by General Electric, Westinghouse Electric and American Telephone and Telegraph, demanded from the commission exclusive right to the short wave lengths, opposing the granting of licenses to cable companies, such as the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Co. and to the press. The press as a whole is seeking thirty-three frequencies, on three narrow bands, for use in transmitting and receiving news across the ocean.
RCA wants in addition to the fifty frequencies it now has, forty-one additional frequencies, which would shut out everybody but the United States government.
The Radio Corporation suggests that it could lease circuits to the press, to which representatives of the press reply that this would be giving the newspapers preference on certain circuits, a preference to which RCA insists the press is not entitled.
In fairness to RCA, its side of the matter should be stated. Manly Davis, its representative, believes the federal radio commission should adopt as its guiding principle in allocating short wave lengths, the following rules:
"No frequency will be granted for communication between fixed points to any organization unless that organization has adequate facilities and has the obligation under the law to accept messages from the public and to serve any and every one of the public equally and fairly and without discrimination."
Explaining this proposition Davis says:
"If each newspaper of the world, large enough and of sufficient importance reasonably to expect an exclusive channel, should receive such a channel, there would not be nearly enough for the rest of the public."
POLICE DOG AND COPS CLASH
SAN RAFAEL, Cal.—Policeman E. P. Monteverdi found a dog running loose on the streets and put it into the police auto. Fifteen minutes later he returned to the car but the dog wouldn't let him.

In Monteverdi called for help and Policeman Kane responded. Both were helpless. Then Special Officer James McNally came. The dog didn't even wait for McNally to come near. He leaped out of the car and chased him down the block. Finally a veterinarian was brought to the scene, and after much negotiation peace was established with the dog, and he was returned to his owner.

WATER LILIES ARE PROFITABLE HOBBY FOR RAVENNA MAN

RAVENNA, O., June 7.—Growing of water lilies has worked out to be a profitable hobby to F. T. Wright, retired Ravenna business man and owner of two water lily ponds on the old Harding farm on the Kent Ravenna Road near here. Contrary to general belief, the profit does not lie in the selling of the flowers, but in the marketing of the roots.
Last year Wright produced 1,100 water lily roots, which retail at anywhere from $1 to $50.
"Of course," Wright says, "the $50 flower roots are few and far between. The ordinary run of roots retail around $2 each."
Water lily roots are transplanted in an artificial pool on fine estates for scenic and landscape decorations. That alone is about the only use for them.
Raising water lilies is much the same as the business of agriculture according to Wright.

The Theater

A great variety of stage plays, novels, magazine and original stories have been assembled by Fox for the 1928-29 season. Major productions of the new group already completed include:

"Sunrise," with George O'Brien and Janet Gaynor; "Four Sons," with Margaret Mann, James Hall, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., and others; "Mother Machree," with

"Dawn," the much-banned picture, depicting the life and death of Edith Cavell, English nurse, executed by the Germans during the World War, has been allowed to show in New York and will probably be seen in Ohio before many moons. It remains to be seen how the smaller communities will react to the film or if they will have the broader viewpoint of the metropolitan audiences.

Xenians who saw "The Student Prince," when it was presented on the legitimate stage in Dayton, will await with great anticipation the film, by the same name, which will be shown at the Bijou soon. Norma Shearer and Ramon Novarro star in the picture, which has been acclaimed by the east.
